Chapter 2 – Vision

Taylor Comprehensive Plan Update – 2004

The Comprehensive Plan, though broad in nature, is intended to provide clear and decisive statements concerning the community's goals and objectives, the general distribution and allocation of land use and transportation functions, and other general guidelines. In order to establish this positive framework for growth, the plan must first create a sense of overall vision. The vision is a broad statement of how the community views what it will become, particularly over the next 20 years. This vision is an ideal, the result of imagining the future based on established perceptions and values, building upon the community's strengths, and overcoming any obstacles.

To establish its vision, the City of Taylor sought input from citizens and City staff to create a vision that best described their ideal and achievable image of Taylor for the future. This vision statement serves as the basis for developing the City's Comprehensive Land Use Plan.
